Design and Engineering

A good product starts with carefully thought-out, detailed designs, which are engineered to the highest degree of craftsmanship that's why our expert personnel work closely with leading kitchen design and management consultants to bring our clients' visions to reality.

LASER CUTTING MACHINE

is a technology that uses for easier to cut the SS Sheets and SS Pipe and is typically used for industrial manufacturing applications. A laser is a device that generates an intense beam of coherent monochromatic light used in drilling and cutting,

WELDING

We rely on equipment which guarantees that the heat does not spread anywhere it is not needed, thus preserving the quality and integrity of the metal. This high-quality manufacturing equipment is partnered with highly skilled technicians who treat each product as though it were a piece of art. This can be felt most clearly in the finishing phase, where all the tooling is pneumatically driven, providing clean, smart and consistent surfaces.

INSTALLATION and MAINTENANCE

Our installation and maintenance personnel are trained in and familiar with not just our own product range, but also in Construction. Our engineers and technicians have undergone training at our key suppliers' facilities to ensure that the installation is right the first time. We maintain a sizeable in-house inventory of spare parts to minimize any down time of our installed equipment.
